This is a correction notice that “Trends in delirium coding rates in older hospital inpatients in England and Scotland: full population data comprising 7.7M patients per year show substantial increases between 2012 and 2020” has been moved from its original journal of publication, Delirium Communications to Delirium. Communications has been merged into Delirium Journal and all of its articles now show Delirium Journal as the hosting/publishing journal, accordingly.

This is a correction notice alerting readers to the fact that this article was originally published in a journal called Delirium Communications. Communications was merged into Delirium on August 20th, 2025, and all of its published articles were accordingly also moved to Delirium’s site. The citations for the article reflect the new hosting journal, Delirium Journal, and not the original journal of publication.

Please contact the editorial team at idelirium.journal@gmail.com with any questions.
